MINNESOTA LINGO

French for “kisses” or “hugs and kisses” bisoux is a French twist on a Northern classic! Many Minnesotans will say goodbye using the term “kisses”, and in much of Canada, they will say “kisses” or partake in la bise which consists of an exchange of kisses on the cheek(s). Minnesota and Canada share roughly 550 miles of border and have closely intertwined histories, so it’s no surprise that the state most mistaken with being Canadian would carry on a form of this traditional greeting.
